250,000 CHRISTIANS FLEE MOSLEM PERIL

Anatolia's Tragedy Rivals Smyrna As Cold Winter Grips Refugees

Constantinople, Nov. 27.—Another human tragedy that promises to rival the Smyrna fire is developing in Northern Asia-Minor. The tide of 250,000 Christian inhabitants is sweeping in full flood to the fringes of the Black Sea and the Mediterranean.

These refugees are clamoring to be saved. The American naval base at Constantinople is deluged with "S. O. S." calls from the flotilla of American destroyers patrolling the Mediterranean and Black Sea coasts of Asia-Minor, which are crowded with Christians fleeing from the Turk. There is a poignant note of tragedy in every message snatched from the air.

FISCAL COURT IN ONE DAY SESSION

The Ohio County Fiscal Court met in special session at the courthouse, Thursday of last week. Only matters of minor importance were before the court. For the most part, the business consisted of the allowance of small claims. All members of the Court were present.

LIQUOR LADEN BOATS ARE OFF U. S. COAST

With Booze.

New York, Nov. 28.—Eight schooners laden with liquor valued at $3,000,000 at bootlegger's prices are standing off the New York and New Jersey coast today waiting to be unloaded by "fleet blockade runners" which will try to land the contraband wet cargo despite the vigilance of the prohibition navy. This is a part of $10,000,000 shipments of liquor from Great Britain, the Bahamas and Miquelon Island to satisfy the American "holiday trade."

Another destroyer relayed a dramatic appeal to the Near East Relief at Constantinople from James H. Crutcher of Tuscaloosa, Ala., at Sam-sun:

"Can you take 1,000 mountain children? If not it means their end."

One from the destroyer Lawrence came from Americans at Trebizond declaring: "We cannot hold up evacuation from Trebizond orphans much longer. We are overwhelmed by arrivals from the interior. Instruct immediately."

From Mediterranean coastal towns come moving pleas for succor from tens of thousands of orphans.

The destroyer Overton, stationed at Morsina, received a radiogram from Christy Murphy of New York—"not a ship in sight for 6,000 refugees; where can they go?"

Charles Thurber of Manchester, N. H., sent a message—"Must have 50,000 Turkish pounds to buy bread for 10,000 destitute orphans and adults crowding Sivas. The situation is becoming worse hourly. Unless additional funds and transportation are provided immediately thousands will perish."

MAKES APOLOGY

AT LAST MOMENT

Paris, Nov. 27.—The German Government has made a formal apology to the Inter-allied Commission of military control in Berlin for the Steinthal and Passau incidents, in which Allies officers were attacked by mobs and browbeaten by the German authorities during the course of the officers' performance of their duties in inspecting military barracks. In a sharply worded note Germany had been given until last Saturday to apologize, which she did at the last moment.

FASTING MACSWINEY RELEASED FROM PRISON

Dublin, Nov. 27.—Miss Mary MacSwiney, who has been hunger striking in Mountjoy Prison, was released today.

Miss Mary MacSwiney was in the twenty-third day of her hunger strike. Her sister, Annie MacSwiney, was in the eleventh day of her hunger strike at the gates of the jail.

Although the station and storage rooms contained less than the usual amount of freight, baggage etc., a considerable loss in items of that character was sustained. The loss in buildings and contents will amount to several thousand dollars.

The origin of the fire is not known, but it is thought by some that it was probably caused by live coals rolling from the stove.

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS

T. W. Wallace, the produce dealer of Crown Hill, within the ten days preceding last Saturday, shipped from Bonner Dam and Rockport, to his company in the East, 350 coops of turkeys, 2,500 head. The approximate value of the turkeys was $5.88 per head, or a total of $14,700. The turkeys were raised adjacent to the places named and in the Calhoun, Centerport and Logansport countries.

The reason given for all shipments being made from the two points above mentioned was that the I. C. R. R. was making quick deliveries of this class of shipments.

FIGHT ON IRISH

BILL IS ENDID

House Of Commons Passes Measure On Second Reading.

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS

London, Nov. 27.—The House of Commons tonight without division passed the second reading of the Irish constitution bill, after a debate in a single sitting without striking incidents.

That it has failed to the lot of a Conservative government to pilot thru Parliament final legislative sanction to measures granting Ireland such complete autonomy is one of the ironies of political fate. The Conservative party for two generations has stoutly resisted the granting of self-government to Ireland in even the mildest form, and no political question during that long period has provoked anything like the bitter animosities and conflicts in Parliament, on platforms and in the press which accompanied the fight around Irish home rule.

The fight apparently is ended and Parliament with a large Conservative majority quietly accepts the principle of the new Irish constitution without even challenging division. This is all the more remarkable as it was mainly the revolt of the "dilatory" section of the Conservatives against the coalition government for setting up a treaty with the Sinn Fein which led to the rebellion of the Conservatives against the Lloyd George leadership, and so overthrew the coalition government.

Antagonism to the constitution bill hardly took a serious form. Its rejection was moved by a newcomer in Parliament, the Laborite, S. Sakalava, who represents John Burns' old constituency, Battersea. He opposed the bill on the ground that the Irish treaty was therefore a greater mockery than was the act of union.

CO. SUPERINTENDENTS' ACCOUNTS ARE AUDITED

W. L. Threlkeld, State Auditor Department of Education, was in Hartford the latter part of last week, examining and auditing the books and accounts of former Superintendent E. S. Howard and Mrs. I. S. Mason, the present Superintendent. The examination of accounts, as made, extended back to July 1, 1920 and closed with the expiration of the past school year.

The examination, as shown by certificates of the Auditor, attached at the close of each year, revealed that all accounts had been accurately kept, funds properly disbursed and accounted for.

DOUBLE WEDDING AT COURTHOUSE

CAUGHT WITH STILL, MASH AND MOONSHINE

Fred Midkiff, a prosperous farmer residing near Fordsville, was recipient of a raid made Thursday of last week by Constables R. B. Cannon, B. F. Rice and Walter Burden, the latter Marshal of the town of Fordsville. It is stated that an up-to-date still, two barrels of mash and two gallons of warm, white whisky composed the fruits of the raid, all captured in Midkiff's cellar. Midkiff was arrested and delivered to Magistrate Murphy of Fordsville.

DENBY ARRAIGNS NAVAL STUDENTS

Midshipmen Disgraced In Drinking
Bout, Secretary States;
Probe To Follow.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The conduct of the Annapolis midshipmen in the Army and Navy football game in Philadelphia Saturday was arraigned in a public statement today by Secretary Denby, of the Navy Department, declaring that members of the corps had brought disgrace not only on themselves but on the Naval Academy.

"How many midshipmen drank heavily I do not know," said the Secretary's statement, but he added that despite the good behavior of many, enough midshipmen had "failed to do their duty to their uniform and to their country to bring shame upon all." He announced that an investigation would be ordered.

Secretary Denby's Statement

Secretary Denby's statement follows:

"My attention has been called to the misconduct of a number of midshipmen from the Naval Academy on Saturday night last after the Army-Navy game. I have no desire to minimize in any way the fact that many of the midshipmen did disgrace themselves and bring disgrace upon the Naval Academy for I know it to be true. I am shocked beyond measure that such things could have occurred."

"The misconduct on that occasion was as far as I know, the most flagrant that has ever been charged against the academy. How many midshipmen drank heavily, I do not know. The whole regiment was in Philadelphia. Only a relatively small proportion of the regiment attended the ball. Of this proportion I think the great majority conducted themselves with propriety, but enough failed of their duty to their uniform and to their country to bring shame upon all. I hope such an occurrence will never be repeated for such steps as are necessary will be taken to make it impossible in the future."

Inquiry to Begin at Once.

"In this connection I wish to make it quite clear that the Naval Academy has heretofore set an example to the country of good conduct upon such occasions and will set that example in the future. I was so proud of them at the game, which was one of the most thrilling I have ever seen, and where I saw absolutely no evidence of drinking among the midshipmen that the later events of the evening came as an absolute shock."

"When I think of the picture presented by our 2,400 young men standing at cap salute in honor of the visitors while the cadets celebrated upon the field their well won success I can hardly reconcile their sportsmanlike conduct then with what occurred afterward."

"An investigation will at once be ordered."

DARK ASSOCIATION IN WORKING ORDER

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 28.—With a full corps of officers selected and business policies outlined for the Dark Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association of Kentucky and Tennessee, things are rapidly shaping up for the handling of the actual business for which the organization was formed. This was all done at the highly important meeting of the board of directors which was held here last week, and which, as was expected, lasted for several days—from Monday through Thursday to be exact.

The officers selected are as follows: president, W. F. Bradshaw, prominent banker of Paducah; first vice president, W. C. Broadbent, of Trigg County, the largest tobacco grower in the district; second vice president, Claude C. Cocke, of Clarksville, Tenn., another tobacco grower; Reuben D. Farmer, banker of Adams, Tenn., was named as temporary secretary, and later was elected as permanent treasurer; these, with Judge Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville, and J. Guthrie Coke, of Auburn, Ky.; form the executive committee which is entrusted with much important business.

It was not until Thursday that the rest of the places were filled, the elections at that time being general manager John Harrington, prominent tobacconist of Clarksville, Tenn.; his associates are Ennis P. Harris, of Bowling Green, for the One Sucker district; Clarence D. Brown of Owensboro for the Green River district; men for the Stemming and Dark Fired districts are yet to be named.

Director of warehouses, R. E. Cooper, tobacconist and warehouseman of Hopkinsville; C. A. Rogers, of Owensboro, was named as associate and George Covington, of Mayfield, and B. L. Moore, of Springfield, as assistants, with others to be named by Mr. Cooper.

Chief of field service division, Joseph Passonneau, who has been in charge of the organization campaign. He was empowered to name his associates.

Chief Grader, C. K. Smith, of Clarksville; assistants for the dark fired district, James West, of Hopkinsville; for the One Sucker, Lee Duke; for the Green River, R. O. Flynn; for the Stemming, James G. Gist.

Legal Counsel, Aaron Sapiro. Office manager, S. S. Stitt, of Henderson. Mr. Stitt will also be named as permanent secretary at the Dec. meeting of the directors.

The City National Bank, of Paducah, was made financial trustee, with the Bank of Hopkinsville as depositor and holder of receipts, etc.

All of these men are splendidly qualified for the position for which they have been selected, and general satisfaction has been expressed that they have been secured to handle the association's affairs. All of them have gone actively to work to get their departments in shape and to function as quickly as possible.

The matter of finance naturally provoked much discussion and to meet immediate needs a loan of $200,000 was ordered to be floated at once with local banks. Then it was also ordered that several million dollars should be secured from the War Finance Corporation, and if possible a conference on this be held at Washington, on Dec. 6. The committee to represent the association at this meeting will be President Bradshaw, Judge Bingham, Aaron Sapiro, Claude Cocke, J. Guthrie Coke, Joseph Passonneau and William Bailey.

At the conference held with warhouse men, 137 houses were offered to the association, according to Director Cooper. Some of these are not suited to the needs of the association and cannot be accepted for that reason, but early consideration will be given to this important matter, for houses must be secured before tobacco can be received.

All over the district the feeling among the members is good and everybody is expecting the association to be successful from the start.

JUDGE BETHURUM VISITS HARTFORD

Judge B. J. Bethurum whose home is in Somersett, but for some time past residing in Lexington, where he is chief of council or legal adviser to the prohibition enforcement officer in charge, in Kentucky. Judge Bethurum was in attendance of Circuit Court in interest of Judge Shaver and other Federal officers who clensed, arrested the three negroes and took the automobile in which they were traveling, turning same over to the Federal authorities for confiscation.

Judge Bethurum is being prominently mentioned as a probable candidate for United States Senator on the G. O. P. ticket, to try for the seat now occupied by Senator A. O. Stanley. Judge Bethurum did not discuss the matter while in town, in so far as we are informed.

HILL—REYNOLDS

Miss Anna Louise Hill, an attractive high school student, daughter of Mr. Jesse Hill, deceased and Mrs. Hill, of Hartford, and Mr. William M. Reynolds, of McHenry, accompanied by the bride's mother, went to Owingsboro Sunday, where they were joined in marriage. The Rev. E. E. Smith, a Presbyterian Minister of that city, performed the ceremony.

The young couple will probably go to housekeeping at McHenry, at an early date, as Mr. Reynolds is employed by one of the Coal Companies of that vicinity.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Entire Document Devoted To Proposed Aid To Shipping.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The text of President Harding's address to Congress follows:

Members of the Congress: Late last February I reported to you relative to the American merchant marine, and recommended legislation which the Executive branch of the Government deemed essential to promote our merchant marine and with it our national welfare. Other problems were pressing and other questions pending, and for one reason or another, which need not be recited, the suggested legislation has not progressed beyond a favorable recommendation by the House Committee. The committee has given the question a full and painstaking inquiry and study, and I hope that its favorable report speedily will be given the force of law.

It will be helpful in clearing the atmosphere if we start with the frank recognition of divided opinion and determined opposition. It is no new experience. Like proposals have divided the Congress on various previous occasions. Perhaps a more remote hostility never was manifest before, and I am very sure the need for decisive action—decisive, favorable action—never was so urgent before.

Problem of Grim Actuality.

We are not now dealing with a policy founded on theory; we have a problem which is one of grim actuality. We are facing conditions, out of which will come either additional and staggering Government losses and national impotence on the seas, or else the unfurling of the flag on a great American merchant marine commensurate with our commercial importance, to serve as carrier of our cargoes in peace and meet the necessities of our defense in war.

There is no thought here and now to magnify the relation of a merchant marine to our national defense. It is enough to recall that we entered the World War almost wholly dependent on our Allies for transportation by sea. We expended approximately three billions, feverishly, extravagantly, wastefully and impractically. Out of our eagerness to make up for the omissions of peace and to meet the war emergency we builded and otherwise acquired the vast merchant fleet which the Government owns today.

In the simplest way I can say it, our immediate problem is not to build and support a merchant shipping, which I hold to be one of the highest and most worthy aspirations of any great people; our problem is to deal with what we now possess.

To Relieve Treasury of Drain

Our problem is to relieve the public treasury of the drain. It is already meeting. Let us omit particulars about the frenzied war-time building. Possibly we did full as well as could have been done in the anxious circumstances. Let us pass for the moment the vital relationship between a merchant marine and a commercially aspiring nation. Aye, let us suppose for a moment the absurdity that with one $3,000,000,000 experience and with the incalculable costs in lives and treasure which may be chargeable to our inability promptly to apply our policy—while God forefend happening again—let us momentarily ignore all of these and turn to note the mere business problem, the practical question of dollars and cents with which we are confronted.

The war construction and the later completion of war contracts, where completion was believed to be the greater economy to the public treasury, left us approximately 13,200 gross tonnage in ships. The figures are near 12,500,000 tons now, owing to the scrapping of the wooden fleet. More than half of this tonnage is Government-owned and approximately 2,250,000 tons are under Government operation in one form or another. The net loss to the United States Treasury—sums actually taken therefrom in this Government operation—averaging approximately $16,000,000 per month during the year prior to the assumption of responsibility by the present Administration. A constant warfare enables loss of public funds, and the draft to service of capable business management and experienced operating directors, have resulted in improved efficiency and enforcement of economy.

Loss Now $50,000,000 a Year

The second is obstructively continuing to report the net Government operations and distribution of the losses to $4,000, leading Government losses and disbursements per month, or a total of $50,000, leaving private enterprises by Government competition, under which losses are met by the public treasury and witness the continued losses and deterioration until the colossal failure ends in sheer exhaustion.

The third is destructive—involving the sacrifice of our ships abroad or the scrapping of them at home, the surrender of our aspirations and the confession of our impotence to the world in general and our humiliation before the competing world in particular.

A choice among the three is inevitable. It is unbelievable that the American people or the Congress which expresses their power will consent to surrender and destruction. It is equally unbelievable that our people and the Congress which translates their wishes into action will longer sustain a programme of obstruction and attending losses to the treasury.

I have come to urge the constructive alternative, to reassert an American "we will." I have come to ask you to relieve the responsible administrative branch of the Government from a programme upon which failure and hopelessness and staggering losses are written for every page, and let us turn to a programme of assured shipping to serve us in war and to give guaranty to our commercial independence in peace. Knows Hostility to Word "Subsidy."

I know full well the hostility in the popular mind to the word "subsidy". It is stressed by the opposition and associated with "special privilege" by those who are unfailing advocates of Government aid whenever vast numbers are directly concerned. "Government aid" would be a fairer term than "subsidy" in defining what we are seeking to do for our merchant marine, and the interests are those of all the people, even though the aid goes to the few who serve.

If Government aid is a fair term—and I think it is—to apply to authorizations aggregating $75,000,000 to promote good roads for market highways it is equally fit to be applied to the establishment and maintenance of American market highways on the salted seas. If Government aid is the proper designation for fifteen to forty millions annually expended to improve and maintain inland waterways in aid of commerce, it is a proper designation for a needed assistance to establish and maintain ocean highways where there is actual commerce to be carried.

But call it "subsidy," since there are those who prefer to appeal to mistaken prejudice rather than make frank and logical argument. We might so call the annual loss of fifty millions which we are paying now without protest by those who most abhor—we might as well call that a "subsidy." If so, I am proposing to cut it in half, approximately, and to the saving thus effected there would be added millions upon millions of further savings, through reduced losses on capital account—

Government capital, out of the public treasury, always remember—and there would be at least the promise and the prospect of the permanent establishment of the needed merchant marine.

Would Stress American Viewpoint.

But I wish to stress the American viewpoint. Ours should be the viewpoint from which one sees American sailors at sea, the dependence of American commerce and American vessels for American reliance in the event of war. Some of Mountain States, then to the Seaboard States and industrial communities building inland a thousand miles or more. It is a common cause, with its benefits commonly shared. When people fall in the national viewpoint, and live in the consciousness of community selfishness or narrowness, the sun of this Republic will have passed its meridian, and our larger aspirations will shrivel in the approaching twilight.

But let us momentarily put aside all comity forbids. Concern about measure of such transcending national importance must have its fate decided, though the interest abroad depend on geographical, occupational, and professional or partisan objections. Frankly I think it better statesmanship to support and command a policy designed to effect the larger good to the nation than merely to record the too hasty impressions of a constituency. Out of the harmonized aspirations, the fully informed convictions, and the united efforts of all the people will come the greater republic. Commercial agencies for the promotion and carrying of our foreign commerce, are of no less importance to the people of Mississippi and the Missouri Valley, the the blunting and indisputable fact of the loss of fifty millions a year under Government operation remains; likewise the fast diminishing capital account, the enormous war expenditure, to which we were forced because we had not fittingly encouraged and enabled as our commerce expanded in peace. Here are facts to deal with, not fancies wrought out of our political and economic disputes. The abolition of the annual loss and the best salvage of the capital account are of concern to all the people.

Will Repay Every Dollar Expended

It is my firm belief that the combined savings of operating losses and the protection of the capital account through more advantageous sales of our war-built or war-seized ships, because of the favorable policy which the pending bill will establish, will more than pay every dollar expended in Government aid for twenty-five years to come.

It should be kept in mind that the approximate sum of five million dollars annually paid for the transport of our

CONAN DOYLE'S THEORY NOT NEW

Creator of Sherlock Holmes "Discovers" Birds Sing Above Ear's Range.

London, Nov. 25.—There were days when the discoveries of Sherlock Holmes were startling the world but those days have passed and now Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the alter-ego of Sherlock, is devoting his energies to new fields.

The Sherlock has been laid on the shelf, Sir Arthur is making discoveries which are almost as marvelous as those made by the pipe-smoking sleuth of old.

Sir Arthur has discovered spirits galore. He has found a way to photograph the fairies and now he comes along with the discovery of birds that sing but whose songs are lost to human ears.

Makes Sound Test.

Visitors to Sir Arthur at his home in Crowthorpe tell of rather interesting: if not astonishing, experiments which the writer carries on. That bullet wounds received in the war had a cage of Japanese birds in Europea war had unbalanced his drawing room and when the birds mind.

Surgeons agree that in cases of listen closely, asking them to make a Cuts, Burns, Bruises and Wounds the first treatment is most important.

When an efficient antiseptic is applied promptly, there is no danger of infection and the wound begins to heal at once. For use on man or beast, Borozone is the ideal antiseptic and healing agent. Buy it now and be ready for an emergency. Price 30c, 60c and $1.20. Sold by the Ohio County Drug Co.

TRADES WIFE FOR FORD.

To satisfy his desire for an automobile Fred Woodruff, of Fulton, N. Y., traded his wife to Grover Conant for a Ford auto. The written agreement, which was as nearly true to law formal as the two men knew how to make it, was signed by Mrs. Woodruff who was thereby transferred from one man to another like a common chattel. Owing to Woodruff's inability to pay off a $40 mortgage on the auto it was seized by a former owner. The woman left Conant, so both men lost out.

So, if Sir William knows whereof he speaks, it would seem that there is scientific refutation that the latest "discovery" of Sir Arthur is a discovery at all, and in view of the fact that his fairy photographs have not been altogether accepted without doubt, it would seem that people had more faith in the discoveries of Sherlock Holmes than they have in the latter day discoveries of the sister-ego of Sherlock.

Barker said tonight. Warehouse managers and bookkeepers from all parts of the Burley district will be here Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, Mr. Barker said, to receive their final instructions.

District graders and managers of the association's redriers also will be here Monday for the final instructions, and on Monday the warehouse graders will be in Lexington to take their examinations which are required before they are permitted to pass upon crops of the growers. These examinations will include practical demonstrations on ability on the part of the graders to do the work which will be required of them.

Director Barker reiterated his statement of last week that members of the association would not be compelled to haul their tobacco to the larger receiving points in order Burley receiving point and that to obtain a good grade, and said that expert graders would be at every grade would be uniform throughout the district.

Splendid Cough Medicine.

"As I feel that every family should know what a splendid medicine Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is, I am only too pleased to relate my experience and only wish that I had known of its merits years ago," writes Mrs. Clay Fry, Ferguson Station, Mo. "I give it to my children when they show the slightest symptoms of being croupy, and when I have a cough or cold on the lungs a very few doses will relieve me, and by taking it for a few days I soon get rid of the cold."

MANY KENTUCKY BEEKEEPERS MAKE A LIVING FROM HONEY

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 27.—Beekeeping usually is taken on as a sideline, but there are beekeepers in many parts of Kentucky who make a good living by giving all their time to the production of honey, according to a revised circular entitled, "Elements of Beekeeping," which has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture and which is being sent out free to interested persons. The new circular contains many pointers designed to be of special help to beekeepers in general as well as the person who is just making a start with bees. It may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington, for Circular No. 69.

DECEMBER IS BEST MONTH TO STUDY FARM BUSINESS

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 27.—December is the best time of the year for the farmer to study his hedges, according to W. D. Nicholls, head of the farm economics department of the College of Agriculture. At that time of the year the field work is over, the yield, quality and market price of farm products are known and the long nights and weather at that season of the year are such that there is only limited time for field work. This gives the farmer a good chance to look back over the year to make an invoice of mistakes and successes and plan ahead for the coming year. The lead pencil used during the winter months to study the farm business and make plans for the new year is the greatest labor saving and profit insuring implement on the farm, Mr. Nicholls says.

COVER CROPS SAVE SOIL ON THOUSANDS OF ACRES

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 27.—Reports already received from 16 counties of the state indicate that cover crops this winter will stop soil washing and the leaching away of plant food on thousands of acres of Kentucky farm lands, according to R. E. Stephenson, soils specialist of the College of Agriculture. Despite the fact that this is only the second year in which an intensive cover crop campaign has been put on in the state, the acreage of such crops has made a substantial increase.

In 14 of the 16 counties, farmers have started demonstrations involving close to 19,000 acres of rye alone to show their neighbors how fields can be protected from washing during the winter. This rye not only will prevent soil erosion and leaching losses on the various farms, but also will furnish fall, winter and spring pasture and make a good residue to plow under for green manuring purposes, thereby putting humus into the soil. Barley also has proved popular as a cover crop, seven counties reporting demonstrations involving 2,300 acres. Barley, like the rye, will protect the soil, furnish grazing and in many cases make a grain crop that can be harvested next spring.

Farmers in nine counties of the state are putting on demonstrations this winter to show the value of crimson clover as a cover crop. This crop makes a good winter legume but in many cases farmers have found it hard to get a stand of it that would go through the winter. Four hundred and sixty acres of it are being grown in the demonstrations. Farmers in eight counties have demonstrations underway to show the value of vetch as a winter cover crop. They are growing 300 acres of this crop. Vetch is harder and more reliable than sweet clover but the price of seed is almost prohibitive. Rye and vetch commonly are grown in the demonstrations.

Seven counties report demonstrations involving 3,300 acres of winter oats while alfalfa and sweet clover are being used for cover crops in other counties. Wheat also will protect the soil on thousands of acres this winter although this crop usually is harvested for grain. Counties that already have reported on the acreage of cover crops seeded are Marion, Allen, Jackson, Grayson, Lawrence, Breckinridge, Morgan, Owsley, Union, Jefferson, Harlan, Clinton, Fleming, Meade, Campbell and Madison.

Chamberlain's Tablets.

These tablets are intended especially for indigestion and constipation. They tone up the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They act gently on the liver and bowels, thereby restoring the stomach and bowels to a healthy condition. When you feel dull, stupid and constipated give them a trial. You are certain to be pleased with their effect.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Columbia Record—The flapper style is going, but the dear things will hit on something else if we give them time.

St. Joseph News-Press—Making the world over seems a relatively unimportant task to the woman who must make last winter's frocks over.

Washington Star—Princess Hermine says she has a written agreement with the former Kaiser permitting her to leave Doorn twice a year for a period of eight weeks. Wonder if she ever heard her spouse's ideas on "scraps of paper"?

Dallas Farm News—The housewife is a much more essential member of the family on the farm than in the city. On the farm the housewife is a very useful person and should be looked on by her husband as a partner in his business and be given privileges corresponding to all that he has. But such a condition is too seldom found on American farms. Many farmers still supply themselves with the most modern machines for their work in the fields and never think of supplying their wives with corresponding conveniences in the kitchen.

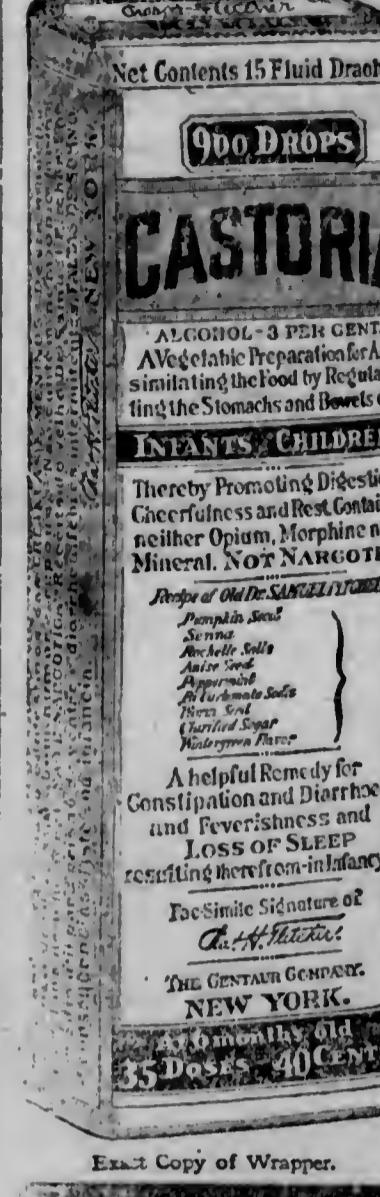

COLLEGE GIRLS RESIGN.

When a matron at Wellesley College, Mass., discovered Misses Billie Burau, of Barre, Vt., and Joaa Roth, of Stamford, Conn., smoking in their room she threatened to inform the dean, but said she would desist on condition that they reform. "Don't wait," the girls replied curtly, "we're going now." Later the fair smokers explained their action "as a protest against the antiquated opinion that ladies mustn't smoke. Wellesley is too narrow for the modern girl. Imagine! Hurling cigarette! Why, as a matter of fact, our great grandmothers of frontier days smoked corncob pipes. We girls of today come by our tastes honestly."

Sickly children need White's Cream Vermifuge. It not only destroys worms, if there be any, but it acts as a strengthening tonic in the stomach and bowels. Price 35c per bottle. Sold by Ohio County Drug Company.

Customer, rushing to Druggist—You made a mistake in that prescription I gave my mother-in-law. Instead of quinine you used strichnine.

Druggist—The devil then you owe me 20 cents more.

STORM IS SEEN AS DIVINE VISITATION

Simple Islanders Say Wrath of God Is Directed Against Modern Inventions.

Manil, Nov. 25.—Typhoons and other disturbances, terrestrial and marine, which recently ravaged the provinces occupied by Ilocano, the people of Malayan origin, with perhaps some Japanese, on the north-west coast of Luzon, have recalled the superstitions of this people regarding storms. They think of storms as a divine visitation and feel that their fields are destroyed by wind and flood because they have offended the deities.

The spirit of the storm is personalized for them in a man-god sent by the Supreme Being to administer punishment upon the sinful. He is fierce when avenging the use of inventions, such as the stripping machine, that the Ilocanos have been using to clean their maguey fiber with, instead of retting it in salt water. Field crickets nibble at blader twine made from retted fiber in order to get the salt, and so its importation into the United States is prohibited. When the crickets eat the twine the sheaves of grain are loosened.

Using such inventions as stripping machines is "following the devil's wisdom" to the old-time Ilocano; and when a typhoon destroys his maguey fields he is not surprised. The man-god that works in the typhoon is supposed to wield two instruments of destruction—the bolo and the sx. In a moderate storm he is only using a big bolo, "atagulbadang," and in a harder storm his huge ax, "natagulwasay."

In spite of superstitions, however, machines for stripping fiber and also the Supreme Being to administer punishment upon the sinful. He is rural living are being introduced successfully. The beliefs in evil entities and avenging deities are old, and the inventions imported by the international young Ilocano is progressing.

FRIDAY..... DECEMBER 1

If the American people don't know what is best for America ask Clemenceau, the Frenchman, who is touring the U. S. for the purpose of casting light in the dark places.

With turkeys bringing forty cents per pound, as they gobble, a lot of heads of families had a hard time looking pleasant as they wielded the carving knife on old Tom yesterday.

In this issue we reproduce President Harding's message delivered to Congress last week. Whether one favors Government aid to our merchant marine or not the message ought to be read by all who can do so.

Potatoes 18 cents per bushel in Wisconsin and Michigan and three to four cents per pound in Hartford, is difference a plenty to make the overworked head of a family growl every time he looks a local spud in the eye.

The Louisville Papers according to the press out in the State have been wanting to dictate the nominee for Governor for the Democrats. In the coming race, and their alleged dictation has been strongly condemned from Mills Point to the Big Sandy.

Henry Ford, a man who is not a historian, neither does he have any particular knowledge of politics, the man of stupendous business interests and for that reason we presume would be an ideal candidate to put up for President, according to some of the Louisville papers.

Prof. John P. Tiernan of South Bend, Ind., who denied the fatherhood of a child borne by his wife, lost a case in court to establish that fact, has been divorced, remarried to a woman whom he says did not perhaps, have a legal right to marry, has rejoined his original wife and the divorce has, or is to be annulled. We don't know whether it all happened in and before the same court or not, but things just as strange have happened.

Some of the Democratic Newspapers are immensely pleased with Clemenceau and his line of speeches. He, the "Tiger" would have the United States shoulder all of France's obligations, straighten out all tangles, in fact act as antidote for every ill. And these self-same papers who are forever and eternally lambasting the present Administration for the high rate of taxation and "cussing" because it has not been lowered are busy handclapping and applauding Clemenceau when he berates America for not taking on other expensive responsibilities. None of these obligations for which the Country is being sapped to meet, were incurred under a Republican Administration, yet they gleefully speak of deficits and charge the deficiency to Republican management.

STRAY STREAKS

Two things we can't get excited about or interested in: A rifle shoot in a distant State and a six-day's bicycle meet.

Health is said to be wealth. It all depends upon the viewpoint, and whether or not it is a doctor doing the viewing.

Speaking of funerals: The sickly season of the year is upon us. Why don't Birkhead buy Scud, the funeral car driver, a silk hat?

We see where a man married after forty years of courtship—presume he had passed that stage in life when one's resisting powers are worn out.

If we had a lot of work to do we would not hire a person who had never done anything wrong, if we knew it. Because if we hired one to work we would want him to do it.

Kaiser Rial says when you hear a man and woman say they have been living together for ten and fifteen years without a single jar or the utterance of harsh or cross word, one to the other, it's a sign of two things, viz: somebody's prevaricated or have no get up and get in them and are not worth a durn.

MEXICO ITS HOME

Domestic Species of Turkey Had Origin There.

Thanksgiving Bird, So Well and Favorably Known Today, Never of the Wild Species.

At this time of the year when the feasting holidays are here, almost everyone thinks of turkey, which also took an important part in the first Thanksgiving of the Puritans, the founders of Thanksgiving as we know it today. Little is known of the early history of the domestic turkey. Writers of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries seem to have been ignorant about it, and to have regarded it as the guineafowl or pintado of the ancients, a mistake which was not cleared up until the middle of the last century, says a writer in the New York Sun.

The name it now bears, and which it received in England where it is reported to have been introduced in 1541, was given it from the supposition that it came originally from Turkey. As far back as 1573 we read of it as having been the Christmas fare of the sturdy British yeomanry.

Came From Mexican Fowl.

Andubon, one of the early pioneers of American ornithology, supposed our common barnyard turkey to have originated in the wild bird so prevalent in the eastern half of the United States. But it has always been a matter of surprise to naturalists that the latter did not assimilate, by interbreeding and reversion, more intimately in color and habits to the domestic form. No suspicion, until recently, appears to have been entertained that the two birds might belong to different species.

Our common wild turkey, once so plentiful in Pennsylvania and New York, is now restricted to the more eastern and southern portions of the Perfect Specimens.

United States, while in the parts of Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, and Arizona, thence stretching southward along the eastern slope of Mexico, there exists another form, essentially different, which by way of distinction, has been popularly called the Mexican turkey. It is from this species, and not from the other, as has been erroneously supposed, that the domestic fowl has been derived.

Many Differences Seen.

Between the wild bird of eastern North America and the Mexican and typical barnyard fowls there are differences which must be apparent to the most superficial observer. The extremities of the tail feathers as well as the feathers overlying the base of the tail are in the latter creamy or fulvous white, while in the former they are of a decided chestnut brown color. Other characteristics exist, apparent to the ornithologist.

The difficulty experienced in establishing a cross between our wild and tame birds, shows that they are not as closely related as one would suppose. Did a near kinship exist, interbreeding would more easily be accomplished. With the Mexican turkey, matters are otherwise. That a relationship does exist between the domestic bird and the latter there can be no question, as specimens of the naturalized species are often met with which are nearly the counterpart of its Mexican progenitor, differing only in the greater development of the fatty appendages of the head and neck, differences which may be accounted for as the effects of the influences to which the birds have been subjected by man. No well-authenticated instance of similar reversions to our once familiar eastern bird have been known to occur, which would necessarily have been the case had they been so closely related as was once maintained.

Kaiser Rial says mixing drinks is just about ready to be beamed into the class of other lost arts. As if a fellow happens to get a wee drop he gulps it down like a dry steer at a rain barrel fearing discovery and confiscation by some revenue.

LOCKOUT TO MAKE 60,000 MEN IDLE

New York, Nov. 27.—The Mason Builders' Association today issued a lockout order to its 128 members, ordering them to pay off all bricklayers employed by them at 5 p. m. tomorrow, as a protest against the bricklayers' refusal to work with independent laborers.

Anouncement of the lockout was made by Christian G. Norman, chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trade Employers' Association, which has endorsed the stand of the Mason Builders' Association.

Norman declared that he had been informed by counsel for the non-union hod carriers that an injunction returnable Wednesday had been issued, forbidding the bricklayers from discriminating against independent laborers.

The lockout, officials agreed, would affect about 60,000 workers in the building trade in the metropolitan district immediately and would render idle another 65,000 within a month.

About $100,000,000 in construction work in the metropolitan areas may be tied up, officials estimated.

SHORTEST TERM OF COURT IN STATE

Maysville, Ky., Nov. 27.—The shortest term of court in the state is on the books in the state.

The petit jury was selected as there was only one case to be tried and that was compromised after the jury was sworn they were immediately dismissed.

The grand jury adjourned a brief session of a few hours without returning any indictment.

mails is no new expenditure. It should be kept in mind that the loan fund to encourage building is not now; it is the law already, enacted by the essentially unanimous vote of Congress. It is only included in the pending bill in order to amend so as to assure the exactation of minimum interest rate by the Government, whereas the existing law leaves the grant of building loans subject to any whim of favoritism.

It should be kept in mind, also, that there are assumed limitations of the Government aid proposed. The direct aid, with ocean carrying maintained at our present participation, will not reach twenty millions a year, and the maximum direct aid, that we carry one-half of our deep seas commerce, will not exceed thirty millions annually. At the very maximum of outlay we should be saving twenty millions of our present annual operating loss. If the maximum is ever reached, the establishment of our merchant marine will have been definitely retarded and the Government-owned fleet fortunately liquidated.

From this point of view it is the simple incontestable wisdom of business-like dealing to save all that is possible of the annual loss and avoid the millions sure to be left to the Government's capital account in sacrificing our fleet. But there is a bigger, broader, more inspiring viewpoint, nay, a patriotic viewpoint. I prefer to the constructive action of today which offers the only dependable promise of making our war-time inheritance of ships the foundation of a great agency of commerce in peace and added guaranty of service when it is necessary to our national defense.

Thus far I have been urging Government aid to American shipping, having in mind every interest of our producing population, whether of mine, factory or farm, because expanding commerce is the foremost thought of every nation in the world today.

Believes In Government Aid

I believe in Government aid becoming bestowed. We have aided industry through our tariffs; we have aided railway transportation in land grants and loans. We have aided the construction of market roads and the improvement of inland waterways. We have aided reclamation and irrigation and the development of water power; we have loaned for seed grains in anticipation of harvests. We expend millions in investigation and experimentation to promote a common benefit, though a limited few are the direct beneficiaries. We have loaned hundreds of millions to promote the marketing of American goods. It has all been commendable and highly worthwhile.

At the present moment the American farmer is the chief sufferer from the cruel readjustments which follow war's inflations, and befitting Government aid to our farmers is highly essential to our national welfare. No people may safely boast a good fortune which the farmer does not share.

Already this Congress and the administrative branch of the Government have given willing ear to the agricultural plan for post-war relief, and much has been done which has proven helpful. Admittedly it is not enough.

Credit Systems Must Be Broadened.

Our credit systems, under Government provision and control, must be promptly and safely broadened to relieve our agricultural distress.

To this problem and such others of pressing importance as reasonably may be dealt with in the short session I shall invite your attention at an early day.

I have chosen to confine myself to the specific problem of dealing with our merchant marine because I have asked you to assemble two weeks in advance of the regularly appointed time to expedite its consideration. The executive branch of the Government would feel itself remiss to contemplate our yearly loss and attending failure to accomplish if the conditions were not pressed for your decision. More, I would feel myself lacking in concern for America's future if I failed to stress the beckoning opportunity to equip the United States to assume a befitting place whose commerce is inseparable from the good fortunes to which rightfully all peoples aspire.

STATE U. ACCEPTS

PATTERSON WILL.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 24.—The Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky in special meeting today formally accepted the provisions of the will of the late Dr. James K. Patterson, president emeritus and for forty years president of the University of Kentucky, directing that the income of his estate be used to create a college to be named for William Andrew Patterson, Dr. Patterson's deceased son, to train young men for diplomatic and consular service of the United States and to provide special training for those who may seek employment in extending upon national and scientific lines the commercial relations of America.

Additional provisions that Dr. Patterson's library, consisting of several thousand volumes and worth $10,000, be given to the university, provided it remains intact in the house in which Dr. Patterson lived and died, were also accepted.

STOMACH PUMP IS USED ON CHILD 2 YEARS OLD

Ashland, O., Nov. 25.—When it was found that little Marian Dannley, 2-year-old daughter of Dr. G. R. Dannley and Mrs. Dannley, had swallowed a large pill containing a small amount of arsenic a stomach pump was used. The child swallowed a fourteen-inch rubber tube, the size of a lead pencil, used in connection with the stomach pump.

GOLD NUGGET IN COAL ASHES

When Harry Lyle, Danville, Va., emptied a panful of ashes from a stove he saw the gleam of yellow metal. Raking through the ashes he found what appeared to be a small gold nugget. A jeweler who later examined the find pronounced it 14-karat gold. No one knows whether it had been a bit of refined gold inadvertently thrown into the stove or was a natural nugget taken out of the West Virginia mine with the coal.

ANCIENT INDIAN WAS GREAT SMOKER

Smithsonian Institution Finds Abundance of Proof in Ruins Of Mesa Verde.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The Smithsonian Institution has discovered that ancient Indians who lived hundreds of years ago in that part of the West which we now call Colorado were inveterate pipe smokers.

Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the institution, has returned to Washington, after several months of archaeological field work in the Mesa Verde National Park, with reports of a prehistoric ruin to which he has given the name of "Pipe Shrine House," on account of the large number of tobacco pipes found.

New Pueblos Found.

Congress passed a law several years ago reserving the Mesa Verde Park from settlement because of the numerous cliff dwellings in its canyon. Since that time archaeologists have discovered that there are as many pueblos in the open on top of the Mesa as in the cliffs. In May of this year Dr. Fewkes undertook work on a mound in the neighborhood of a reservoir called Mumma Lake.

"The results of his excavations were as instructive as they were unexpected," says the Smithsonian Institution. "Out of this mound has emerged a rectangular building about seventy feet square and one story high, accurately oriented to the cardinal points, with a circular tower formerly fifteen to twenty feet high, like a church steeple, midway of the western wall. This tower is supposed to have been for observation, and as it is very important for agricultural people to determine the seasons of the year, it was probably by watching the sun as it rises in the east or sets in the west that they determined the time for planting and other events."

"In the middle of this building there was found a circular room twenty feet deep and about the same in diameter, in which were found over a dozen clay tobacco pipes, numerous stone knives, pottery, idols and other objects.

"Pipes of this kind have never before been found in the Mesa Verde National Park, and as all the indications point to the belief that after the rite of smoking they were thrown into the shrine the ruins were called on this account the Pipe Shrine House.

"A few feet south of the building, which was not a habitation, but specialized for ceremonials, there is a square room or shrine dedicated to the mountain lion, a stone image of which was found surrounded by water-worn and other strangely formed stones.

"The cemeteries of the pueblos of the Mesa Verde are situated near the south east corner, and while the burials in them have as a rule been moved by vandals, several interments were found in the cemetery near the Pipe Shrine House."

TANKAGE GONE TWO DAYS; HENNS LAY 320 EGGS LESS

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 27.—Animal protein, fed to hens either in the form of tankage, sour skim milk or semi-solid buttermilk is a big item in keeping the winter egg basket full, according to results obtained during the year just past by S. J. Howard, a Henderson county farmer living near Corydon. Mr. Howard, along with 48 other farmers scattered over the state, has just finished the records which he kept on his farm dock for one year in co-operation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture to show the value of recommended practices in feeding and caring for hens.

Being without tankage two days last January caused his flock of 167 White Leghorns to lay 320 eggs less than month than they laid the previous month, according to one of his reports. His flock was the third highest producing one out of the 47 for the year ending Nov. 1, each of his hens having laid an average of 164 eggs during the 12 months.

BOMBS TO BE DOOM OF SHIPS OF WAR

General Mitchell Says Depth Missile Will Be Death Knell Of Big Vessels.

Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—The knell of the present-day battleship has been sounded by the airplate, but not by the dropping of bombs on its decks, as popularly supposed, according to Gen. William A. Mitchell, chief of the Army Air Service, who stopped off here recently in his plane for a few minutes.

A cow belonging to C. T. Johnson, a Los Angeles capitalist, fell into an abandoned well at Johnnie, Nev. A derrick was rigged up and ropes were lowered and made fast to the cow. BOOZE FOUND IN BREAD; DEALER PAYS BIG FINES

Akron, O., Nov. 25.—Officer Howard Moody rolled his eyes about the crowd at a market-house jam. He saw two huge loaves of bread sticking over the end of Frank Caraleas' provision basket. They were uncovered, and Moody lifted one out. It was heavy, but the other was heavier. Also, the crust was broken on the second. Moody thrust his finger thru the fracture and felt something strange in a loaf of bread. It was a pint of moonshine.

Caraleas affected great surprise, but he paid a fine, anyway, when he appeared before the police judge.

Deep-seated coughs that resist ordinary remedies require both external and internal treatment. If you buy a dollar bottle of Balford's Horehound Syrup you get the two remedies you need for the price of one. There is a Herrick's Red Pepper Poultice Plaster for the chest, free with each bottle. Sold by Ohio County Drug Co.

Call the Corn

Blow, O Horn of Plenty, blow!
Call the corn from crib and row;
Banish of misery!

Tell the corn to journey far,
Find where hungry children are;
Find where eyes of sorrow stare
Into bards cold and bare.

Blow, O Horn of Plenty, blow!
Make our thankful hearts to know
Just how sweet it is to dwell
In this land of All-gone-well.
Land where, if one field deserts,
We need only turn our eyes
To another, there to find
God has been just doubly kind.

Blow, O Horn of Plenty, blow!
Those a-hunger soon must know,
That, though they have been denied,
We will soon them satisfy.
From a thousand fertile farms,
Homes by sturdy yeoman arms,
Will go gifts in such great share
Hunger cannot linger there.

Blow, O Horn of Plenty, blow!
Call the corn from crib and row;
Banish of misery!
Then a stricken land will bless
American unselfishness;
Then a still, small voice will say:
"Truly 'tis Thanksgiving day!"
—William Herschel, in the Indianapolis News.

Quaint Song of Thanks

Through the hard days of the World war while the men were fighting, the women of America were working, waiting, ever courting eously. Now that those days are over and the difficult aftermath needs careful handling, woman is still striving to add her service wherever there is need of brave and patient endeavor.

Post-war times are alway's trying ones. Hence it is with a little more sympathetic understanding than usual that we read the lines of a quaint old Thanksgiving hymn, bearing the date of 1783. Its author is unknown, but its sentiment holds true today, though we may wish to change the name of our first President to that of some later leader.

The Lord above, in tender love,
Hath saved us from our foes,
Through Washington the thing is done;
The war is at a close.

America has won the day
Through Washington, our chief;
Come, let us rejoice with heart and voice
And bid good-by to grief.

Let us agree, since we are free,
All needless things to shun;
And lay aside all pomp and pride,
Like our great Washington.

Though we do not proclaim this anonymous writer as a second Shakespeare, let us follow his counsel by bidding farewell to grief, by laying aside pride and pomp, and turning this Thanksgiving season into one in which we remember only our mercies and blessings, which are many. "Come, let us rejoice with heart and voice," for what we have, if it be but little, helping the less fortunate, it it be an abundance.

Day of Joy

Thanksgiving on the Farm

Oh, the farm was bright, Thanksgiving morn,
With its stacks of hay and shocks of corn.

Its pumpkin harvest in the rambling shed,
And its apples brown and green and red;

And in the cellar, the winter store,
In bins that were filled and running over.

With all the things that a farm could keep.

In barrel and bin and goodly heap,

Hung to the rafters and lid away—

Oh, the farm was a pleasant place to stay!

And here and there was the Jersey stock,
The sheep and horses—Old Prince and Jack—

The turkeys and geese and awkward calf,
And the goat that made the children laugh.

A pair of mules that a friend had sent
Out to the farm for experiment,

Pigeons and fowls and a guinea pig,

Dogs that were small and dogs that were big,

Chickens that were white and black and gray—

Oh, the farm was a jolly sight that day!

And back of the house the orchard stood,
Then came the brook and the chestnut wood,

The old sawmill where the children play,

The folder barn with its piles of hay,

The walnut grove and the cranberry bog,

The woodchuck hole and the larkling dog,

The wintergreen and the robin's cave—

Wherein who entered was counted brave—

The steaming pond with its fringe of bay—

Oh, the farm was a right good place to stay!

Oh, the pantry shelves were loaded down
With cakes that were plump and rich and brown.

With apple pie and pumpkin and mince,

And Jellies and jam and preserved quince,

Cranberry sauce and puddings and rice,

The dessert dishes that look so nice,

Vegetables, breads, and bonbons sweet,

A great brown turkey and plates of meat,

Sauces fixed in the daintiest way—

Oh, 'twas a glorious sight that day!

Oh, the farm was bright Thanksgiving morn,

The sun shone clear on the hay and corn,

The guests came early with laugh and shout,

And the boys and girls scattered about,

Seeking the pets they had known before,

Climbing through window instead of door,

Shouting and laughing with glee, until

The dinner-horn sounded. Oh, I say

'Twas pleasant upon the farm that day!

Eagle's Day Off

Thanksgiving day! Thanksgiving day!
The plumes of celery are gay.

Cranberry sauce is glowing red,

The sun shines blessing on your head,

And from the oven comes a whiff

That makes each little taker sniff.

Give me some white meat, if you please,

I'm busier than honey bees!

Thanksgiving day! Thanksgiving day!

It's father than the buds of May,

Stewed onions, sweet potatoe plump,

A turkey poached on every stump.

When folks on farms decide to eat,

Believe me, it's a merry treat.

Give me a drum-stick—gravy, too,

And ma, I drink the health of you!

"Thanksgiving Day."

Tis a good day to have in our calendar. None of us would see it dropped, whether there is much or little to be grateful for. At least there is always the day to be glad of—Thanksgiving day.

That is when this pinch hitter gets into the game as the national bird.

Hymn

For Summer's bloom and Autumn's blight,
For bending wheat and blasted mists,
For health and sickness, Lord of light,
And Lord of darkness, hear our praise!

We trace to Thee our joys and woes—
To Thee, of causes still the cause—
We thank Thee that Thy hand bestows;
We bless Thee that Thy love withdraws.

We bring no sorrows to Thy throne;
We come to Thee with no complaint;

In Providence Thy will is done,

And that is sacred to the saint.

Here, on this blessed Thanksgiving Night,

We raise to Thee our grateful voice;

For what Thou deest, Lord, is right;

And, thus believing, we rejoice.

THE BLESSED

By Nancy Byrd Turner

November darkens to its close,
They kneel beside their flickering hearth;
Without, one little wistful rose
Is drooping toward the barren earth.
A frost had bitten the April fruit,
A blight had seared the summer corn,
Sharp hail had smitten to the root
The golden barley, overborne.

"But oh," he cries, "I love you, sweet!
What shall wereck of wind or weather
So long as we can surely meet
The sunshine end the storm together?"

Her meager little garden prayed
All long July for quenching rain;
The sad-eyed cattle left the shade
To seek their cooling creek in vain;

The flowers that her hands had cherished,
That made the borders beauty-bright,
They bowed their lovely heads and perished;

Her tears had fallen at the sight.

"But ah," she breathes, "I love you dear!

It cannot truly matter whether
We gain the year or lose the year,
Just so we live the year together."

Then on the heath a fagot falls
And breaks to sudden leaping light;
A cricket in corner calls;
Slow silence creeps down the night.
The circle of his young arm makes
A shelter where the dark had been;
The old clock on the mantel wakes
And cries Thanksgiving in.—

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

As we read of old time Thanksgiving customs, we realize that the world has been travelling fast since away from the simple and the spiritual.

One of the customs, particularly, was

After the Thanksgiving dinner, while the family was still seated around the table, each member was asked to tell for whom, in the past year, he was particularly thankful.

These recluses were always revelations of character. The small children of the family mentioned some material thing, a sled or a doll, for which they were grateful.

The older children, those in their teens, were more abstract. They were thankful for the advantages of education, of family prestige, or their social position—a bit self-centered, perhaps, as is wont with youth in its teens.

But mother and father, in their untiring of years, knew that the greatest blessings of life were health and happiness, and their recitals of thankfulness always included a word of thanksgiving that the family had been spared illness and poverty. No thought for themselves, but thankful of soul's success in school, and daughter's improvement in controlling her temper.

The spirit of the day calls for just such a touch of spiritual introspection. It keeps alive that fainly spirit, the joy of an assembled family, the particular source of Thanksgiving to each member, along with the joy of the unfashioned dinner.

Old-Time Thanksgiving.

A quaint account of a Thanksgiving dinner back in 1779, is given in a letter of one Julianne Smith, written to her dear "Dear Cousin Betsey," found in an old diary:

"This year it was Uncle Simeon's turn to have the dinner at his house, but of course we all helped them as they help us when it is our turn, and there is always enough for us all to do. All the baking of pies and cakes was done at our house, and we had the big oven heated and tilted twice each day for three days before it was all done, and everything was good, though we did have to do without some things that ought to be used. Neither Love nor Money could buy Raisins, but our good red cherries dried without the pits, did almost as well, and happily Uncle Simeon still had some spiced in store. The tables were set in the Dining Hall, and even that big room had no space to spare when we were all seated. The Servants had enough to get around the tables and serve us all without oversetting things. There were two our turnchasters, side by side. They are always handsome old ladies, but now, many thought, they were handsomer than ever, and happy they were to look upon so many of their descendants.

The Crown of the Feast.

"There was no Plum Pudding, but a boiled Suet Pudding, stirred thick with dried Plums and Cherries, was called by the old Name and answered the purpose. All the other spice had been used in the Mince Pie, so for this Pudding we used a jar of West India preserved Ginger, which clung to be left of the last sidings which Uncle Simeon had from there. We chopped the Ginger small and stirred it through with the Plums and Cherries. It was extraordinary good. The day was bitter cold and when we got home from Meeting, which father did not keep over long by reason of the cold, we were glad of the fire in Uncle Simeon's Dining Hall, but by the time the dinner was one-half over, those of us who were on the fire side of one table was forced to get up and carry our plates around to the far side of the other table, while those who had sat there were glad to bring their plates around to the fire side to get warm. All but the Old Ladies, who had a screen put behind their chairs."
